

Henry Huie, MD

Henry Huie, MD, graduated from New York Medical College and then completed his Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation residency program at Stanford University Hospital and Clinics where he served as chief resident. Following residency, he finished fellowship training in Traumatic Brain Injury at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center. Dr. Huie is now Associate Chief of Stroke and Brain Injury Rehabilitation at Santa Clara Valley Medical Center and serves as the site director at Santa Clara Valley Medical Center for the Stanford Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation residency program. In addition to inpatient brain injury rehabilitation, he has a strong interest in the management of spasticity and concussion in athletes.